The cozy life in Tuscany

We went from Rome airport to (Argentario Golf Resort & SPA) hotel of Tuscany, it was about an hour and a half 's drive, the hotel was located on Argentario peninsula. Argentario in Italian means: the silver coast. Argentario peninsula have been occupied by Spain, when entering the island, people should go through an old city gate of Spanish architectural style. Argentario hotel is a member of Design Hotels™ Group, the luxury resort hotel accommodates a total of 73 guestrooms and a country house, with views of the golf course, and spectacular views of Mount Argentario and Orbetello (Orbetello) lagoon. Each room with the sense of design was equipped with terraces, using the latest technology, the materials used and furniture have been carefully selected.

The hotel was located in Maremma of Tuscany, being close to Porto Ercole, it always reveals a healthy and respectful flavor of nature.

Arriving at the hotel at night, the dinner was ready, in order to maintain the warmth of the food, the thoughtful waiters calculated the time well and waited for us in the corridor, we enjoyed a delicious dinner in the room. The early morning was waken by bird's song, overlooking on the terrace, the wind of the mountain brought the scent of refreshing olives and lavender, there were groups of white birds flew freely in the distant area. The surrounding area of our lodging place was enclosed by lush and undulating hills, large century-old olive trees and cork oak were planted in the mountain, it is the home of hares, deer, squirrels, wild boar and various birds. The vast golf course blended with the views of the nearby area. The farthest area that our sight can reach is the magnificent view of the integration of Mediterranean and the sky, the mountains in the distant area outlined elegant lines, the clouds added lively dynamic to the blue sky.

The aerobic exercise of silver coast

The fragrant culinary journey

The Chef of DamaDama restaurant proposed a series of dishes on the basis of local flavor and color, the materials of the dishes were well-selected, they came from carefully selected small local farms, during certain period of time, the ingredients were shipped directly from orchards and gardens to the store. The founder of the restaurant is Fabrizio Santucci, the well-known restaurant manager and the owner of Rome Il Caminetto hotel. The guests who love delicious food and creative cooking in the kitchen can walk into the back of the kitchen of DamaDama restaurant, fastening an apron, handmaking original seasonal appetizers and desserts under the guidance of the chef, learning how to match the wines with dishes. We were learning how to cook from the executive chef of Argentario hotel, this time we made the healthy Italian pasta. Making dough is very important, adding water and flour into the stainless steel pan, placing the dough on the board, rubbing hard with one hand, after kneading the dough, it will be covered with plastic wraps for 30 minutes. Tasting the creative cuisine made by one's own hand in the restaurant, enjoying the time of delicious flavor.

Tasting the sunshine of good wine

The undulating land of Tuscany hills were dotted with olive trees, extensive vineyards, tall and strong pine trees and ancient winery; it is the God's gift. It would take about 45 minutes to drive from Argentario hotel to the nearby winery Le Mortelle, when driving out of the hotel, people would go through a more than 1400 years old Spanish architecture, now it is the restaurant of LA VIVIENDA.

Going along the coastal road, the sea is on the left, the lagoon is on the right, the sea disappears unconsciously, groups of hills, vineyards and olive groves appear on both sides.

The shades of sunset sprinkled on the grass, looking into the distance in front of the glass curtain window of the cellar, hundreds of hectares of vast and neat vineyards greeted us, we were savoring delicately the variety of vintage wines produced in the winery and snacks, it was a quiet and good time. Red uppercase "M" is the wine label of Le Mortelle, we tasted the wine which was called Botrosecco of Chateau Le Mortelle, it was mainly Cabernet Sauvignon and it was preserved in oak barrels for at least a year. It smelled pleasant; when people were drinking it, there was a scent of spice and some fruit, the fragrance lasted for a long time. The winery of Le Mortelle also grew a variety of fruits, such as blueberries, pears, apricots, plums, citrus and peach and so on. There were fresh strawberries on sale at the reception of the winery, there were also all kinds of organic jam in the store.

Enjoying Tuscany slowly

We spent our dinner time at La fontanina on the hillside around Argentario hotel, this is a place where there are quality and stories. Rural rustic restaurants were exquisite and quiet, people from Michelin Guide are always here for visit. Green plants were all over the courtyard, the fruit trees that are full of lemons, geraniums with purpose flowers, fig trees, pear trees and so on sent out a natural atmosphere. Organic vegetables were grown in the courtyard. Several huge ancient cherry trees were full of black cherries, the branches were skillfully trimmed by the owner of the restaurant, they became natural parasol that decorated the restaurant. One of the cherry trees got sick and almost withered away 20 years ago, a farmer cut a few pieces of bark and put a big rock in the middle, it survived. Viewing the distant sea from the courtyard, people feel relaxed and happy. Mr. Umberto Amato, 55-year-old restaurant manager once served as private cook of the boss of Bulgari, he traveled to many countries such as France, the Caribbean, the United States, Spain, etc. He returned to Italy in 2003 to take over his father's restaurant. He took us to visit a room of the restaurant which is about 9 m2, during World War II, the grand mother of the general manager raised four children in this little room.

Enjoying the fun of the farm

The province of Grosseto (Grosseto) is a city which combines long history, traditional culture and fine art. of the perfect combination of city. Here we encountered the Malay Mary Parks (Natural Park of Maremma), there were farms and homey tourist reception center in the park, the hostess of the ranch came from South America, because the children should go to school, so the whole family moved to Rome, they would be back for vacation on weekends and in summer months.

There were accommodation and restaurants within the park, we were here to enjoy a delicious lunch, where the Maremma beef was very famous, the beef of Florence came from here. The renowned chef Fabio Campoli selected eco-organic ingredients which will improve the quality of traditional Tuscan cuisine. Driving a four-wheel drive car in the park, enjoying the abandoned medieval castles, animals and plants along the road. Raising the camera at hand, its function of high-speed continuous shooting captured the horses in the park and the cows that jostled to eat, the quality of photo is fine. The flora and fauna were presented by the wooden plaque along the road here, you can stop to watch. Overlooking on top of the hill, the blue waters of the island of Giglio and the Island of Argentario were shining.

In addition, Solano is a town in the province of Grosseto, Italy, the main tourist attraction is the Orsini Castle, built in the 14th century, it is considered to be one of the outstanding representatives of military fortress during the Renaissance. Besides, there are also Leopoldino rock and Vitozza attractions for people to visit. Pitigliano (Pitigliano) is a beautiful countryside town located on top of the steep rock, the scenery is beautiful. It has a quaint historic Jewish community "Little Jerusalem" which witnessed the history of development of Jews in the town.

Siena Gothic dream

The spring of Tuscany changes rapidly, people do not know under which cloud there will be rain, the Mediterranean climate is hot and dry in summer and mild and rainy in winter. We went to the World Heritage site - Siena, this ancient city is the incarnation of the medieval city. Siena is located in southern Tuscany region, it is about 50 kilometers south of Florence, it was built in the conjunction of the three hills of the Chianti hill between Alseria and Al Se river valley. Siena was founded in 29 BC, it was the trade, financial and art centers in history, it is now the capital of the province of Siena. Residents here went through long-term competition with Florence in order to gain the right for conducting urban planning in this piece of land. For centuries, they maintained successfully the Gothic style urban landscape of the city which has been formed since the period from the 12th century to the 15th century.

The urban buildings of Siena are dense and have a high degree of architectural unity. Pink bricks are harmonious with the surrounding dark blue and gray hills. In addition to the Romanesque and Renaissance elements, the Italian Gothic style occupies an important position, it is subject to the influence of the orient during the period of Crusades and presents in the form of a narrow arcade. Siena fortifications were built with towers, being adapted to its topography and enclosing its historic center, this fortification can be traced back to 14-16 century . Dek Bo Square is the center of the city, which is located in the conjunction of three hills and the intersection point of three avenues, this constitutes a "Y" shaped layout of the city. The shape of the famous Dek Bo square is "conchoidal Saint - Jacques" and is inclined to the public buildings at the intersection the surface of which has been carefully carved.

A number of Gothic fountains which have been built in the 13th-century enriched the coordination and luxury of Siena . The decoration of pleasant fountain is about traditional themes of moral and religious freedom, the form and characteristics are free and very lively. The two short sides of fountain depict the relief of "creation of Adam" and "expulsion", the front pillar depicts Rhea Silvia and Arca • Larentia, the middle of long dimension depicts the Virgin and Child, virtues and angels are located on both sides. The Runda fountain of the ancient city was built in 1081, the top was embedded with animal-shaped gutter spout, the fountain consists of three sturdy Gothic arcades, thereby leading to a cave, lovers like to express vows of love by the fountain. Siena

National Gallery was built in the Buwen Signori palace which was built in the 15th century, the collections of Martini's "Madonna and Child" and the Virgin series of Loren Donizetti can be found there.

The center of Siena Pastoral Square

Wandering around there, feeling the artistic atmosphere, postcards can be made by a snapshot. The pastoral square was considered as the planning center of the ancient city, it is most appropriate to visit the whole city from pastoral square, pastoral square is the soul of Siena, the unique shape of shell is regarded as masterpiece of architectural history. The Piazza del Campo square is the main square of Siena in Tuscany region of central Italy, and one of Europe's largest medieval square. The city hall, Mangia Tower and various aristocratic mansions were lined up along the square. Piazza del Campo square was initially built from the bazaar before the 13th century, it was built on a hillside near the confluence of three ridges. In 1349, the square was paved with red fish bone pattern brick, nine lime lines stretching out from the central drainage openings in front of the town hall. The number 9 is a symbol of the nine people governance that reined Siena from 1292 to 1355. Piazza del Campo square is still the center of the city's public life, radiating to the whole city from the 11 narrow streets. Taking the camera at hand, its creative function enables photos to show the unique style, the historic square showed a nostalgic effect of black and white. Montaigne once said in 1580, the square is not only the center of the city (all the streets leading to the square) according to space, but also the spiritual focus of the people of Siena. "Every day there is public Mass on the altar of the square, since the houses and shops were built facing the plaza, so residents and craftsman can hear the Mass without having to leave their homes or to stop working.

Entering into the town hall, we could see birds flying in the sky through the square patio. Overlooking from the high point, the square was like a huge fan, it consists of nine parts which represent nine members of the government of Siena. Mottled warm color architecture stood on both sides of the long and narrow streets, with strong rhyme of history, the iron loop on the walls of the ancient city once served for tying horses, among them, there were also some fashion shops. Siena town hall which was located on the square of Piazza del Campo was built in 1297, it was originally designed to accommodate the republican government consisting of director general and nine people committee. The appearance of Siena town hall is the exemplification of Italian medieval architecture influenced by Gothic style. The bottom was built with stone masonry, while the upper layers were built with bricks. The facade of the building is slightly recessed inward to fit the shape of the Piazza del Campo, and became the focus of the square. There were two layers of Gothic pointed arch windows with three-holes in the middle of the facade of City Hall, the city hall today is the seat of the Municipal Museum, which shows many paintings and sculptures that are related to the history of the city.

Siena solidified in the time

The church which was initially founded at the end of the 13th century is located at the highest point of the ancient city, it was once Italy's most spectacular church. The surface was imbedded with black and white marbles, which combines sculpture, painting and Roman - Gothic architecture. The three gates at the lower half of the section are of Romanesque style. But the upper half is of Gothic style. The interior decoration of the church is even more fascinating, it will take more than one hour to have a careful tour. The entire floor was paved with 56 exquisite marble mosaics. Among the treasures of the church, there were sculptures of Nicholas Pisano, Donatello and Michelangelo, exquisitely embedded mosaic sidewalk and the gorgeous frescoes of FIG Rizzio. The interior supporting columns of the cathedral, the light and dark color marble serpentine which looks like copper ring snake, the dark part is the unique green marble. The "three Graces" created by pingto Riccione preserved in Siena. Piccolomini Library of cathedral is also the memorable treasure. The "three Graces," is the general term for the three goddesses of charm, elegance and beauty.

City street is the most characteristic street of Siena, it is located between the cathedral and the garden square. There is not only first-class Italian clothing brand, but also a magnificent Gothic palace. The palace was built in the 12th century, the circular appearance and graceful curves of the street complemented with each other. The building has been the location of Chigiana Academy of Music since 1932. Each year musical myth will be staged here. In addition to the night of the concert, during the whole summer, the musicians will give students from around the world lectures about musical knowledge. People may request to enjoy the precious collections of the palace: the violin of Stradivarius, the piano of FranzLiszt, the painting of Siena School, Virgen figure of Donatello and other delicacies of fine arts. We enjoyed the cozy lunch at the restaurant of square garden, the stainless steel pan which held Tonga ginger pumpkinis is very special, the copper handle is small and cute. The Tuscany platter composed of ham, Italian sausage with garlic, artichokes, sausage, bread, mozzarella cheese was memorable.
